Russian Movie Shows Stalin Accusing U. S., Britain of Bad Faith

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, May 12 — When Russian audiences see the forthcoming Soviet cinema "The Battle of Stalingrad" they will see Prime Minister Stalin depicted as accusing Britain and the U. S. of breaking a solemn promise to open a western front in Europe in 1942 so that Russia would not be "bled white" and her allies could dictate the terms of the peace.

Excerpts from the script, published yesterday in the Moscow News, only English language paper in the Soviet Union, show Winston Churchill as the principal mover against the second front. President Roosevelt is presented as opposing him, but powerless to alter the British prime ministers determination.

The script has Roosevelt saying at one point "There is only one thing for which I am to old and that is to drag Churchill across the channel in chains.

"Want To Reach Balkans"

At another point Stalin is depicted as saying to the audience following a Moscow conference attended by Churchill and former U. S. Ambassador to Russia W. Averell Harriman:

"It is clear. A campaign in Africa and then Italy. They simply want to reach the Balkans first. They want us to be bled white so they can dictate the terms later.

"They want us to fight their battles for them. It won't work. We shall have the Slavs on our side. They hope we shall give up Stalingrad and lose the springboard for the offensive. That won't work either."

Opening scene of the screen play shows Stalin and his then chief of staff, Marshal Alexander Vasilevsky discussing the German's apparent plans to drive on Stalingrad.

The scene then shifts to the White House where Roosevelt is talking to an unnamed newsman. The conversation in part is as follows:

Roosevelt: 'Knowing Russia what would you consider the best way we could help her?"

Newsman: "By invasion of the continent. This has become a historical necessity."

Roosevelt: "Unfortunately, it does not depend on me. What can you do against inertia? It is like hitting a punching bag of wet sand are. You can only soil your hands."

Newsman: "The British are anxious for cheap victory."

Roosevelt: "Yes, they believe that is exactly what the world wants."

Hits African Push

At this point the newsman argues against the North African invasion and Roosevelt says that 'political pressure will finally make some operation on the continent imperative."

The newsman asks Roosevelt if he does not think that the British are not really more interested in the "Bogey of Bolshevism" than defeating Hitler.

'You expect too much of me," Roosevelt says. "I am only the President of the United States."

The locale then moves to the headquarters on the Don of Field Marshall Friederick Paulus, who after his surrender to the Russians in the battle of Stalingrad in February, 1943 appealed to the Germans to overthrow Hitler. The scene discloses that the Germans have secret information that Churchill is planning a trip to Moscow to meet with Stalin. The Germans agree that they must take Stalingrad by the time Churchill arrives in the Soviet capital.

"Invasion Impossible"

At the Stalin-Churchill conference of 1942, which is attended by U. S. Ambassador Harriman and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, the following dialogue ensues:

Churchill: "An invasion of Europe this year is impossible. Great Britain cannot afford at the given moment to risk an operation which does not promise decisive success."

Stalin: "In other words, British and American leaders are going to back down on the solemn promise they gave in the spring of this year."

Churchill: "Gen. Montgomery at present is engaged in preparing an offensive in North Africa. Moreover, as you know, we are planning a grave landing operation in Africa between Algiers and Casablanca."

Molotov: "That will not divert a single division from our front."

Actually Praised Move

(After the United States and Britain launched their combined operations in North Africa Nov. 8, 1942, Stalin wrote to The Associated Press that the effect of the new campaign would "not be small" and that "a certain relief in pressure on the Soviet Union will result in the nearest future * * * the campaign changes radically the political and war situation in favor of the Anglo-American-Soviet coalition.")

Stalin: "The invasion of Sicily would be a political rather than a military front."

Molotov: "That will not divert a second front in France, it will not have a serious military significance."

Churchill: "We are doing everything we can."

Molotov Sees Clouds

Molotov: "This sort of thing, Mr. Prime Minister, does not augur well for the future."

Harriman: "We have brought you a solemn promise of the governments of the United States and Britain that the invasion of France will take place in 1943." (It was delayed until 1944. Meanwhile the United States was occupied in the Pacific and making and transporting supplies to Russia.)

Molotov: "It is needed now. Not only we but mankind needs it."

Stalin: "What guarantee have we that this solemn promise too, will not be broken?"

Molotov: "The prime minister of Great Britain might again argue that his country is not in a position to sacrifice men."

Churchill lights a fresh cigar, but says nothing.

Stalin: "Mr. Prime Minister, the Soviet Union and its army will stem the German offensive. But the blood of tens of thousands of new victims in Europe will be upon the heads of those who break their solemn promise."

(At a London airport, where newsmen met him upon his return from Paris, where he received the medaille militaire Saturday, Churchill declined to comment on the Russian movie.)

Death Claims R. R. Bartram

Former Marion Man, Brother of John H. Bartram, Dies in Columbus.

R. R. "Budge" Bartram, 70, native of Marion, died of a heart ailment yesterday afternoon at his home at 158 Oakland Park avenue in Columbus. The son of one of Marion's pioneer families, he started a career in newspaper work here, and for many years was identified with newspapers in Columbus. He was a brother of Attorney John H. Bartram of 402 South State street.

The son of Samuel H. Bartram, also a native of Marion and an attorney here for many years, and Harriet R. Kline Bartram, whose birthplace was New Brunswick, New Jersey, R. R. Bartram was born Nov. 9, 1868 in the Bartram homestead which stood for many years at the corner of North Prospect and Mill streets, then identified as North and West streets. He attended the public schools and at the age of 14 entered an apprenticeship as printer on the old Democratic Mirror, published by James Vaughan, and later with Ned E. Thatcher, became co-owner of the publication. DEMOCRATIC LABOR BILL HITS OPPOSITION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 12—Senator George (D-Ga) led southern opposition today to a mild Democratic labor bill as Republican leaders predicted overwhelming senate approval this week of legislation outlawing the closed shop and curbing many union activities.

George told a reporter he considers the substitute proposal offered by Senator Murray (Mont) and 10 other party members "a watered down version of no consequence." He added that from 10 to 15 other Democrats will vote against it.

Dismissing the Murray proposal as likely to get only a "handful" of votes, Senator Ball (R-Minn) predicted that when the senate finally buckles down to action, it will pass the omnibus bill before it by more than a two-thirds majority.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), agreeing with that estimate, said a vote tonight is possible. Taft added, however, he could make no promises that the final showdown would not be delayed until later in the week.

Senator Olin D. Johnson (SC), one of the 11 sponsors of the substitute measure, said a vote may not be reached until Friday.

But whenever the roll is called, Senator Ellender (D-La) predicted that "at the most" there will be from 18 to 22 votes for the substitute.

MT. GILEAD HEARING ON W. U. WEDNESDAY

To Take Testimony on Closing of Offices.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, May 12—Public hearings to determine whether or not the Mt. Gilead and five other Western Union offices in Ohio will be closed will begin here Wednesday in the annex of the Morrow county courthouse.

The hearings, which are to decide the fate of Western Union offices at Mt. Gilead, Marysville, Delphos, Ottawa, Bellefontaine and Lebanon, will be under the direction of the Federal Communications commission. They will open at 10 a. m. Wednesday and are expected to run through two or three days.

The telegraph company is proposing to incorporate its offices in the six municipalities with the local telephone offices as an economy measure. Heading the opposition to the plan is the Commercial Telegraphers union, AFL, which maintains the Western Union offices in question in most cases are more than paying their own way.

A representative from the FCC will take testimony which will be reviewed in Washington before final action is taken.

Representatives from the Western Union offices involved, from telephone companies and from leading industries using telegraph service are expected to attend the hearings.

State Takes Hand In W. U. Action

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 12—The state utilities commission today sought to force the Western Union Co. to submit to state jurisdiction on a proposal to close its offices at Bellefontaine, Delphos, Lebanon, Marysville, Mt. Gilead and Ottawa.

A citation to show cause why it should not be subject to state jurisdiction will be heard at Mt. Gilead May 14 with a federal communications commission hearing on the proposed abandonment.

PUCO officials said Western Union contended that since its merger with Postal Telegraph Co. it was no longer subject to any jurisdiction except that of the FCC on such matters. Consequently, they said, the company has made no application for permission to abandon with the state.

Commission officials said the company proposed to handle its business in the affected cities through a teleprinter setup with telephone companies' offices.

Should the telephone office be closed; messages will be relayed by telephone to the nearest Western Union office, PUCO said.

Commissioner Paul E. Weiland said he understood opposition to the abandonments had been withdrawn at all points except Mt. Gilead.

7 DIE IN ACCIDENTS IN CLEVELAND AREA

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 12—Seven persons lost their lives yesterday and early today in train and automobile accidents in the Cleveland area.

William G. Pope and his wife, Mary, of Cleveland, were killed today when their automobile crashed into the rear of an empty tractor-trailer in nearby Fairview village.

Edith Garlick, 15, of Cleveland, drowned early today when the car in which she was riding plunged into a canal in Valley View village near Cleveland. William McFarland, 18, a companion, got free of the car and dived four times in an unsuccessful effort to rescue the girl, police said.

Mrs. Marie Gordon, 41, of Cleveland, was struck and killed by an automobile in front of her home last night.

Miss Lila Dunn, 19, of Cleveland, died when the car in which she was riding with her fiance, Arthur Shimming, 24, was struck by a Big Four train near Elyria yesterday. Schimming received a fractured leg.

Jesse D. Neikirk, 72, and his wife, Anna, 73, of near Oberlin, were killed yesterday when their car was struck by a New York Central passenger train near Lorain yesterday.

FARMERS PUSH DELAYED WORK

Go on Long Work-Day Schedule as Weather Conditions Clear.

Rising temperatures and fair weather sent Marion county farmers into their fields today in a race to get their spring crops planted while conditions remain favorable.

After three consecutive nights of frost last week, temperatures yesterday climbed to 70 degrees. They fell to a low last night of 31 and at noon today the mercury stood at 72 degrees, the highest of the year. Forecast was for warmer and humid weather tomorrow.

Many farmers have placed themselves on long work-day schedules, some as long as 18 hours, in an effort to catch up with spring planting, which in some sections is several weeks behind normal due to the cold wet weather of recent weeks.

Tractors Operating

Tractors were in fields everywhere throughout the county today. Many farmers also worked yesterday to prepare seed beds for oat crops, corn and soybeans. Oats should have been planted a month ago, farm officials point out, but some farmers, desiring to get their fields back into clover, are planting oats anyway, hoping for at least a partial yield. Some whose tractors are equipped with lights worked late last night.

Farm officials estimate the county's oats acreage this year will be cut in half, due to the recent cold wet weather. The acreage generally averages about 20,000 acres. This year it is not expected to be over 10,000.

Corn Planting Near

Plowing for corn and soybeans was well under way today and first corn is expected to be planted within the next few days. The season still is a few weeks early for soybeans, farm officials said.

The county's average corn acreage is estimated at 45,000, although the figure may run slightly higher this year, since corn or soybeans will replace oats on many farms. The soybean acreage this year has been estimated at between 30,000 and 35,000 acres.

According to Frank G. Montgomery, county AAA chairman, a total of 30,000 tons of lime has been approved for Marion county farms this year. Through the government conservation program, farmers will receive a subsidy payment of $1.50 a ton for lime.

COUPLE TO FACE BUCYRUS CHARGES

Marion, Richwood Pair Accused of Check, Auto Thefts.

Charges are expected to be filed this week against Mrs. Mary Millisor of Marion and Medford Marvin of near Richwood, who were taken into custody of Bucyrus police Saturday after their arrest here when Mrs. Millisor was arrested, accused of cashing two checks stolen from Bucyrus firms and Marvin was arrested on intoxication charges.

Since his arrest, according to police reports, Marvin has admitted stealing two automobiles, one of which is being held by Marion police. Police say Marvin and Mrs. Millisor, who has been posing as Marvin's wife, stole an auto at Huntington, W. Va., about April 3 and drove to Miami, Fla., where they abandoned the first vehicle and stole another, making the trip to Marion in the second car. They had been in Marion only a day when they were arrested, Bucyrus police said.

Both Marvin and Mrs. Millisor have been sentenced previously to state and federal prisons, according to police reports. Marvin has served terms for auto and tire thefts, and Mrs. Millisor is at present on probation from the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware from which she escaped about five years ago.

Marion Taxi Stolen For Trip to Bucyrus

Although the Safety Cab taxi company does not advertise a U-drive-it service, someone apparently got that idea Sunday morning.

A cab parked near the City Limits restaurant just north of Marion was stolen and driven to Bucyrus where Bucyrus police recovered it. It was returned to Marion and is apparently in no worse condition than before the free ride was taken.

Taxi drivers make calls to their dispatcher from the restaurant, and also eat there during the night.

High Court O. K.'s Rail Freight Rate

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 12 — The supreme court today upheld an interstate commerce commission order raising railroad freight rates 10 per cent in the north and east and lowering them 10 per cent in the south and as far west as the Rockies.

The commission ordered the changes after officials of southern states complained that higher rates in their region gave northern manufacturers competitive advantages.

Affected are so-called class rates. These apply principally to manufactured articles.

Justice Douglas wrote the court's 7-2 decision. It was read by Justice Burton in the absence of Douglas, who has been ill with a cold. Justices Jackson and Frankfurter wrote dissents.

The commission in May, 1945 found the freight rate structure discriminated against the south on almost all manufactured articles and ordered the changes as the first step toward equalizing rates.

Southern officials hailed the ICC order as one which would permit southern industry to "breathe freely for the first time in history."

Nine northern state governors of the six New England states, and 31 railroads, however, challenged the ICC action as arbitrary. They said it was without facts and upset principles of rate making which had been used for many generations.

The challengers first presented their case before a special three-judge federal court in Utica, N. Y. That court upheld the ICC. The challengers then appealed to the supreme court. Actual change in class rates was deferred pending the high tribunal's decision.

The nine states opposing the increase were New York, Delaware, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

Four Industries Still Trouble Spots On Nation's Labor Front

BY MAX HALL

Associated Press Labor Reporter

WASHINGTON, May 12 — Four industries still are potential trouble spots on the labor-management front.

1 Coal. 2 Maritime. 3 Railroads. 4 Construction.

CIO factory workers have won wage increases without striking. The telephone strike is about ended. These developments were good news for America. But there may be some bad news around a couple of corners.

The situation in each of the possible trouble spots is this:

Coal—A strike is feared for July 1. That's when the government must return the bituminous coal mines to private operators. And John L. Lewis and the operators haven't even started bargaining on the terms of the contract.

They have held meetings, but to date have talked only about the issue of industry-wide bargaining. The next session is scheduled Thursday.

Maritime—The contracts of five CIO maritime unions will expire June 15. The biggest unions involved are Joe Curran's National Maritime union, on the east coast, and Harry Bridges' longshoremen, on the west coast.

Negotiations haven't started yet. The union demands haven't emerged.

Railroads—The rail unions have made demands, but no crisis is likely to develop before fall.

17 Unions Together

Seventeen non-operating unions (telegraphers, clerks, railroad shop workers, and the like) have banded together and demanded a wage increase of 20 cents an hour.

The five operating brotherhoods (engineers, firemen, trainmen, conductors, and switchmen) also have decided to work as a unit to seek changes in their working rules.

Construction—Local wage disputes in the building trades are cropping up here and there, with more to come. This is the season when contracts in the industry generally expire.

There already have been scattered strikes. Such disputes nearly always are confined to a single community but they have a heavy impact on that community.

OHIO PHONE LEADERS PLAN LONG STRIKE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 12 — Leaders of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers called a mass meeting today to lay plans for a long strike against the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. after company and union officials both assailed a new outburst of cable-cutting.

Police and fire departments of nearby Berea were stranded without telephone service for an hour yesterday when one of three large cables was cut by an axe, asserted Walter S. Sparling, vice president and general manager of the Ohio Bell northeastern area.

Reporting 23 long distance and 112 local service cables cut in northeastern Ohio since the strike of 15,000 federation members started April 7, Sparling declared: "Such act of destruction endanger the welfare, health and lives of the people."

Robert C. Pollack, president of the federation, said Sparling was "absolutely correct," and added: "I am certain that it is none of our people who are cutting cables. We might have some sympathizers who feel they are helping us by such action. However, they are not helping us. It is entirely possible that if such action continues the union also may offer a reward similar to the company's."

TRUNK SLAYER FREE 12 HOURS

Winnie Ruth Judd, 1931 Killer, Breaks Insane Asylum Third Time.

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 12—Mad trunk murderess Winnie Ruth Judd was captured today about 12 hours after she escaped from the state hospital for the insane.

The sheriff's office said she was seized near the exclusive Arizona Biltmore hotel, luxurious winter resort on the edge of the desert north of the city.

She was being brought to the sheriff's office in a patrol car.

This was the third escape for the woman who killed two women friends in 1931 and shipped their dismembered bodies to Los Angeles in a trunk.

Her escape from a second floor cell-room was discovered by an attendant at 12:30 a. m. She was last seen at 9 p. m. last night.

"Contivances" Blamed

Dr. Larson used the word "contivances" in explaining escape of the 43 year-old murderess.

He said she was believed to have used a key which opened two doors, one on the second floor which allowed her to descend a stairway and another on the ground level.

A gate on the north side of the hospital grounds was found open, Dr. Larson said.

Officers Alerted

Officers immediately were sent to bus stations, the airport and railroad stations as a widespread search for the "Tiger Woman" got under way.

However, it was considered possible that an automobile might have been waiting outside the grounds for the red-haired former nurse.

Deputy Sheriff Buck Stockton took two bloodhounds to the hospital grounds but they failed to pick up her trail.

"Very Unhappy"

Dr. Larson said Mrs. Judd had been "very unhappy" since he moved her from the infirmary to new quarters 10 days ago. He said she had "too many liberties" in the infirmary.

The covers on the bed in Mrs. Judd's cell-room were only slightly disarranged.

Two attendants on duty did not see Mrs. Judd as she slipped through the building, one of the main structures of the state hospital, on the edge of the city.

"The woman attendant on duty on the second floor had to look after 46 patients," Dr. Larson said.

Shot Roommates

Mrs. Judd shot her roommates, Agnes Anne LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson, to death in a house they occupied Oct. 16, 1931.

Their dismembered bodies were stuffed into trunks and shipped to Los Angeles. Whether Mrs. Judd cut up the bodies herself or had an accomplice has never been established.

When Mrs. Judd appeared to claim the baggage in Los Angeles, depot attendants, their suspicions roused by a peculiar odor, refused to release the trunks unless opened. Mrs. Judd refused.

The trunks were opened and their grisly content disclosed. By that time the killer had vanished. Several days later she was apprehended in a downtown department store.

Sentenced To Hang

Returned to Phoenix, Mrs. Judd was convicted and sentenced to hang. An eleventh hour sanity hearing saved her from the gallows and she was committed to the state hospital.

In 1939 she escaped twice in a six week period. On the first occasion she returned to the hospital after six days, during which she had sent a note to authorities through a minister, saying she was being "persecuted."

On the second escape she remained at liberty 12 days, finally being apprehended at Yuma, 180 miles away. She maintained she had traveled there on foot, skulking along the edge of the highway at night and remaining in concealment during the day.

The state contended she killed Miss LeRoi, a former school teacher, and Miss Samuelson, a doctor's assistant, in a jealous rage over the attentions of a mutual friend.

Today he writes for Hal Boyle his first national byline story:)

By CHARLES SAMPLE

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 12—I'm getting so used to being a civilian that when some one says "veteran" I look around to see who they're talking about.

I'm not forgetting the war, mind you, but after all, that was yesterday. I'm working on tomorrow. Yet when some one walks up and asks me how things are under the GI bill, I really get back into harness.

Thanks Powers

No one can say enough to thank the powers who worked out the bill of rights for veterans, for it was God-sent to a lot of us who would have been in a tough spot without it.

But things could be a little better. The housing problem, I admit, is tough all over, but you should see it here in Columbia, with an influx of 15,000 students into a town of 18,000. But, we'll get along. Of course, they want real money for rent now. I'm paying more than my family ever did for a six-room house. But I'm not complaining. Some vets live six to eight in a room.

It's all right, too, that our food costs are too high.

Ravers Cause Blow-Off

But when you go to school four hours a day, study from six to 10 more hours to keep up in class, and then pick up a paper and read about somebody or some group raving about the veterans going to college just because of the money—well then I really blow my top.

Don't let anyone fool you. School is tough. When you have to sit in a class of 50 to learn a language and only get about five minutes of classroom recitation a week, you're almost on your own, if you want to learn.

The school is not to blame. There isn't enough money to staff sufficiently to handle the whole student body. That is something that state legislatures should start worrying about.

Fair To GI's

The University of Missouri and other schools throughout the country have been more than fair with us GI students. They've given us credits for service work that were really appreciated. The counseling service here is courteous as a grocer during the depression.

We're willing to work with the VA too. We're trying to roll up a college record that will do credit to the education bill ideals.

And we're learning thrift, too. Adding laundry and food and maintenance to a thirty-dollar rent bill means cutting lots of corners to budget that 65 bucks. I'm one of those who do think we should have at least a $25 raise in subsistence money, cause right now it's just existence money, but either way we'll get by. College '47 is our business. I know we can make a success of it. I've got to. You see, I'm marrying a redhead.

ITCH (Scabies) is highly contagious and will continue for life if not stopped. Its odds raises is the itch-mite which is immune to ordinary treatment. KENORA kills the itch-mite almost instantly. Only three days KENORA treatment is required. At all GALLAHER DRUG STORES.

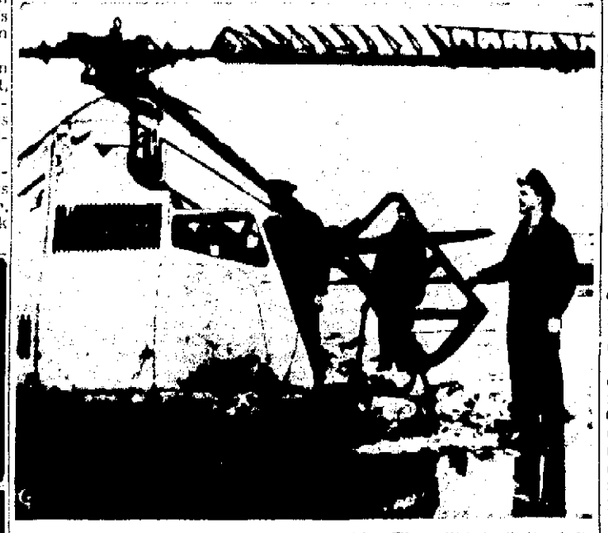
HELICOPTER DIVES FOR GROUND DURING DEMONSTRATION

FLAMES ENGULF CRAFT AFTER TAIL ROTOR WAS TORN OFF



FLIER DUCKS CROWD IN CRACKUP. Quick thinking on the part of Lt. D. O. Gershowitz saved from injury a group of high school students who were watching him demonstrate a helicopter at Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y. The craft, caught in a down-wind, dove (top) to the ground and lost its tail assembly. The pilot took it aloft again and brought it down on a hangar apron away from the crowd where it burst into flames. The torn tail rotor (center) still hangs to the end of the fuselage by a few wires. At bottom, Gershowitz looks at the wrecked helicopter after flames were doused.

Finance Plan Up for Vote

Ohio House Ready To Act on Program for Giving Cities More Money.

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS, O., May 12—The administration's local-government financing plan has been scheduled for vote in the house of representatives Tuesday.

Embodied in three bills designed to furnish local governments $25,000,000 a year from state collected revenues, the plan contains authority for local governments to levy admissions taxes, which the state proposes to abandon.

The admissions taxes now collected on a three per cent basis by the state yield around $3,000,000 annually. Only municipalities would be able to collect admissions taxes however. They may levy at any rate desired.

The other measures comprising the local government financing plan would return $13,000,000 annually of intangible taxes on deposits in and shares of financial institutions and dealers in intangibles, to the counties where the tax originates. It would be distributed within the county by the budget commission on the basis of need.

The third measure would allocate the $12,000,000 annual sales tax allotment to counties on the basis of 25 per cent population and 75 per cent on combined municipal tax duplicates. The counties then would allocate it to the various county subdivisions on the basis of need

As local governments could obtain no revenues this year from the intangible taxes, the program calls for an additional allotment of $14,500,000 this year from the sales tax.

The senate finance committee will begin hearings on the $585,000,000 general appropriation bill of which $75,000,000 is set aside to help finance a soldiers' bonus.

Caledonia Levy Vote Plans Are Completed

Final plans for a special election at Caledonia tomorrow, to consider a five mill operating levy, were announced today by the Marion county board of elections office.

Election supplies have been sent out and final arrangements made for balloting at the town hall in Caledonia. Voting booths will open at 6:30 a. m. and close at 6:30 p. m. Election officials predict the vote will total approximately 350. The levy needs a 60 per cent majority for passage.

The levy, which would run for two years and would be outside the 10-mill limitation, is for current operating expenses. It is being submitted because of a failure last fall to seek renewal of a three-mill operating levy for three years.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Pain in Chest

Now and then doctors see outbreaks of a disorder in which the most outstanding symptom is pain in the chest. Never serious, it is still important to differentiate this disorder from other and more dangerous ones which require prompt and, often, unpleasant treatments and, which in addition, will inevitably cause both the patient and those who love him great anxiety.

Most people who have this disorder do not have fever, but every once in a while a patient may have a rise in temperature to 100 or even 103 degrees Fahrenheit. Accompanying the pain in the chest there may be sore throat and at times running nose. This disorder usually does not make the patients very sick outside of the pain on motion. Many even continue with their work.

The pain, which may last from 2 to 21 days, is located for the most part in the lower region of the chest, below the armpit. There may be some coughing, together with the bringing up of a slight amount of sputum. X-ray examination shows nothing abnormal, nor is the number of white cells in the blood increased.

According to Drs. James Roche and Francis G. Smiddy of England, this condition is due to pleurisy, that is, an inflammation of the lining membrance of the chest cavity. In addition, there may be inflammation of a small area of the lung. It is likely that it comes on following an infection of the nose or throat, which is carried to the lung either in the air passages or through the lymph channels. The disorder apparently is in no way a serious one and the patients for the most part recover without any particular treatment, other than perhaps rest in bed for a few days.

Other, more serious conditions affecting the lungs and chest cavity which behave in much the same ways are pleurisy as a result of tuberculosis, a typical or virus pneumonia, and a disorder known as epidemic pleurisy, as well as one known as epidemic myalgia or muscle inflammation. It is quite evident that the epidemic chest pain is not caused by tuberculosis, in view of the fact that recovery occurs so rapidly.

Thus, it is important that when pain in the chest occurs a complete examination be made, including an X-ray of the chest. In this way the exact cause of the trouble may be determined and the most suitable treatment carried out, depending on the condition present.

Here Are Two Very Good Reasons . . .
Out of our own experiences we could cite dozens of instances where pre-arrangement for funeral service would have been of great benefit to the families involved.
Since our transactions with patrons are held in strictest confidence, we'll sum it up into two reasons why every family should have this protection.
1. Pre-arrangement is the one certain way of assuring that both service and cost will be as you would want them. It is something planned—not hurried into during a time of emotional stress.
2. Pre-arrangement does not cost you a cent. It is not a plan for collecting funeral costs in advance. It is solely for the protection of your family—and your estate. You pay out no money to anyone.
If you would like to know more about this idea of Pre-arrangement, you are welcome to come and talk it over. You will be given all the facts — then you can decide.

ruman Wriggles On Biggest ook of Career—Labor Bill

JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

INGTON, May 12—Presi- uman will be on a very for a while. The hook abor bill.
e gets that bill from neli have to decide whether to sign it into law or try to kill it with a veto.

James Marlow

That will be one of the most important decisions of his career.

When congress came back to work last January, Mr. Truman suggested it pass some mild legislation restricting labor unions.

The house went far beyond his thinking on this subject and passed the most restrictive labor bill ever passed by any house of congress.

This week the senate expects to pass its own labor bill, a little milder than the house version but much tougher than Mr. Truman's ideas.

Then a special committee of both houses will be set up to try to compromise on a single bill agreeable to both houses.

Takes 2, 3 Weeks

This job should take two or three weeks and then the final bill will go to Mr. Truman. If he signs it it's law.

If he vetoes it, and if congress can't get up enough votes to pass it over his veto—a two thirds majority in both house and senate—there'll be no labor legislation this year.

The Republicans have put all their ideas about restricting unions into one big bill.

Mr. Truman will have to sign all of it into law, or veto it all. He can't pick out the parts he likes and sign them, killing the rest.

So it's all or nothing. He could have picked what he liked if the Republicans had passed separate labor bills.

Labor Wants Veto

Organized labor, bitter about what congress is doing, wants the labor bill vetoed. Suppose it's vetoed and, in that way, killed. Then what?

Organized labor—out of gratitude to Mr. Truman and bitterness toward the Republicans—might throw its support to the Democrats in the 1948 presidential and congressional elections.

But suppose this happens:

Right now, while the government holds the coal mines, John L. Lewis can't call a coal strike.

The government, however, has to give the mines back to the owners July 1. Lewis then will be free—if there's no new labor law—to call a strike.

Labor Bill Bars Strike

(The labor bill being turned out by congress would make it possible for the government to prevent a coal strike at any time.)

But suppose a coal strike starts July 1 because, on account of the vetoed labor bill, the government can't stop it.

A long coal strike would cripple the country and might cause the slow-down or shutdown of other industries, throwing millions out of jobs.

Then the non-organized-labor part of the public might place the whole blame on Mr. Truman because of the vetoed bill.

That kind of public anger would work against the Democrats in the 1948 presidential elections.

If Mr. Truman vetoes the bill and other big strikes break out this year, Mr. Truman may get blamed for them.

So the Democrats' victory or defeat in the 1948 elections may depend upon the decision Mr. Truman makes on the labor bill.

Kesselring Must Die Too

ALBERT KESSELRING, German field marshal who took credit for bombing Rotterdam, Coventry and making the Allied high command doubt the wisdom of its campaign in Italy, has been sentenced to death by a British military court. The charge was wanton murder of Italians.

Kesselring must die, too, one more German official to atone for the lives of millions. As the second anniversary of the end of the war in Europe passes, scarcely noted in the desperate struggle to rally from the impact of history's most horrible destruction, the death of a Kesselring or a thousand like him seems no more than a mockery of man in his quest for some semblance of justice.

It was customary to say in the 1920's, speaking of World War I, that no one can win a modern war; that everybody must lose. Those who suspected that Germany, under Hitler, was bent on nihilism—destruction that would make reconstruction forever impossible—are entitled to wonder if they may have been right after all. If anyone won World War II, it must have been the berserk minority whose purpose was to make it history's most terrible conflict. They succeeded. The same Germans who made a hero of Fatso Goering for beating the hangman now can extol the Germanic virtues of a martyred Kesselring, no mean killer in his own right.

The National Game

THE SMOLDERING resentment against Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's Negro first baseman, finally threatened to start a fire of racial hatred in the National League, but Ford Frick, league president, seems to have quieted the trouble-makers by talking to them like a Dutch uncle.

Major league baseball has had some odd characters. It has had lushes and blowhards and it has had ruffians who were dynamite on and off the diamond. It will ill become it if it cannot find a place for Robinson and any other clean-cut Negro player who comports himself like a gentleman on and off the field.

Racially-sensitive players will have to be taught if baseball is to continue as the national game there must be a place in it for all who are good enough to make the grade.

Too Much Compromise

THE $88,000,000 total for annual school aid in Ohio accepted by the state senate in the Daniels-Cramer bill represented a compromise between the $100,000,000 originally requested and the much smaller amount which the bill's opponents were willing to advance this year.

Governor Herbert had recommended in his budget message that the school foundation program be leveled off at $80,000,000, plus other temporary grants which would bring the total up to approximately $88,000,000, which proved agreeable to the senate.

The Daniels-Cramer bill has come out of committee in the house of representatives with a recommendation of $83,000,000 as the leveling-off point for state school aid in the next two years. This is a compromise within a compromise. Under the circumstances, Ohio wants no compromise within compromises.

The general assembly isn't dealing with a theory in school-aid legislation, but with a concrete situation. School systems in Ohio need help, lots of it. If the state could afford the $100,000,000 asked for originally, that would be none too much. Backers of the bill were content to take $88,000,000 instead. The house of representatives should restore that total in the Daniels-Cramer bill.

Third-Party Blackmailers

THIRD-PARTY talk is being revived. Dissidents trying to blackmail Harry Truman into selling out the country for an outside chance to be elected president of the United States are behind it.

This is the pre-1948 warmup of a cabal of political soreheads who think they can arm-twist the Chief Executive of the United States into buying them off at their own price.

The third-party threat has been dynamite ever since Teddy Roosevelt split the Republican vote and gave the presidency to Woodrow Wilson. A third party in 1948 couldn't outlive its nuisance value, but its nuisance value happens to be all that matters.

United Packinghouse Workers, a CIO affiliate, voted unanimously in its recent convention to back independent candidates, pending formation "at the proper time" of a third party. United Auto Workers and other CIO unions are taking the same line.

The CIO claims 6,000,000 members. If half of them could be held in line by their leaders for a third party, or even for independent candidates in a presidential election, Mr. Truman might be jobbed out of a close election. Third-party talk in 1947 is the click of a laoded gun being pointed at the White House by some of the coldest-blooded sharpshooters of this political generation.

There are only about four billion acres of arable land left in the world today—not all of it good—which must feed a world population of about two billion.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Ives Rebellion Succeeds Against Taft.

WASHINGTON, May 12—The revolution against the Taft leadership achieved a one vote majority eliminating the ban on industry-wide bargaining (nation-wide negotiations which lead to industry-wide strikes) from the senate union reform bill.

Sometime before this, a delegation went up to see Gov. Tom Dewey not unmindful of the report that he was privately directing his New York senator and running him alongside CIO-ish Senator Morse to upset the leading Dewey adversary for the 1948 presidential nomination. Dewey denied the sandhog line. The New York senator was guided largely by his own initiative in the matter did and did, Dewey said. And he rather convincingly confirmed this assertion by indicating that he personally would go much further than Ives in voting for stronger provisions of the union reform bill. At least he convinced the delegation Ives was much, much sounder than he would be.

The fury being told currently in the Republican cloakroom, where the strange actions of many senators on both sides is drawing comment. For instance, there is a group of Democrats from whom talk you would reach the conclusion that they will cast favorable votes for the bill. One particular Democrat distinguished himself in previous sessions by action against abuses of union privilege. One such law bears his name. The way he's currently talking, however, you must conclude that while he will vote for the bill on final passage he expects to switch if when Mr. Truman vetoes it.

Seen As Political Fight

A number of Democrats who have not seem to feel relieved of responsibility by formerly left unions restraining the union privileges. As the Republicans won the election, those Democrats who even voted last time for the case reform bill over Mr. Truman's veto have come to consider the issue in a strictly political light, and are preparing to switch to the White House in a surprise maneuver when the times comes.

For this reason, not a checker in the senate will say Leader Taft is assured of two-thirds to pass a final bill over White House objections. No one will say more than that the final result will be very close. They suspect a Democratic coup.

The house of course would pass by two-thirds a bill even stronger than the one which will be enacted. A trio has a rather strong hold on house opinion, Speaker Martin, Charles Halleck of Indiana and Howard Smith of Virginia. The unions cannot get away with much there. But in the senate the union practices have been permitted to get started, and they are terrific. The politics are devious and difficult to explain fully. For instance, Ives and Morse got 16 Republicans (out of 17) to repeal against Taft on bargaining. But the Taft leadership can count on the help of the house conferees in restoring the lost provision, and most of the 16 will no doubt come back eventually to vote for the bill. Thus the rebellion is not likely to be finally effective.

Strange Veto Stories

To top off this political melee strange veto stories are being spread inside. The CIO writers particularly are reporting Mr. Truman will veto portal-to-portal, the anti-injunction bill and tax reduction as well, in complete accord with CIO economics, thus to establish for himself a union pressure following for reelection. This seems to go a little too far, as the portal-to-portal was almost unanimously approved, and not very strenuously opposed by the unions. However, the unions (not alone the CIO branch) are building up a bitter case for some reason or other, AFL's Green characterizing the legislation as "a slave labor bill."

This suggestion of possible Truman strategy seems faulty in another respect. The Democrats already have the union leaders. They cannot gain many votes by pleasing a following which proved to be a short minority in the last election. They are working themselves back in cities by such tactics, having won recently in Chicago and Baltimore. (Also some unprecedentedly close as Madison).

A wiser course would seem to call for Mr. Truman to sign as much as he can because he then would appeal to the doubtful or consumer voting classes, from which he must gain support in order to win reelection.

Here's One Locksmith Love Didn't Laugh At

A Georgia citizen recently was married to a woman serving a life sentence for the poison death of her previous husband.

Who said men no longer like to live dangerously?

With no new worlds to conquer, the modern adventurer must seek other means to prove his daring . . . . and what better way than marrying a self-made widow?

The two were married in jail, the groom being clad in the traditional striped pants, one supposes, with coat of the same material.

They met while he was doing a short stretch on suspicion of burglary, proving once again that love recognizes no barrier between misdemeanor and felony.

Plainly, it was fate which brought them together in the same cell block and so willingly he took the oath to love, honor and come to see her on visiting days.

It's pretty hard on the groom, his bride having to spend her honeymoon in solitary. But at least he knows she isn't stepping out on him.

Berlin in the Spring

Disease and Floods Sweep Beaten City.

By IRENE SIMON
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN—Notes on the spring-time of a beaten city:

Berlin's women deputy mayor and the chief of the health department beg German writers to write plays, novels, and articles underscoring the horrors of venereal diseases.

"We appeal to you to help us bring about a soulish renewal," said Mayor Luise Schroeder. "Lose your ridiculous belief that venereal disease is a delicate subject. It must be painted for what it is, in plain, straight language."

The grey-haired female political leader asserted that the average young German girl has lost virtually all religious, national, and traditionally moral conceptions.

"She has nothing more today," said Frau Schroeder. "No past and no future. She lives from one day to the other with the unhealthy desire to make up for the lost war years and to enjoy her few hours."

"Yet she is not so much to blame as her parents. The majority of parents close their eyes when their daughters come home with cigarets and chocolate after a night out. They take it for granted and call it 'organizing,' though they know it for what it really is."

Health Statistics Cited

Frau Schroeder's appeal was backed up by statistics set forth by Dr. Otto Harms, Berlin's health expert.

"Compared with the present," he said, "the moral collapse of Germany after the first world war was ridiculously minute."

Because of overcrowded homes and unsanitary conditions, even children of four and six years are coming down with syphilis, he stated.

Dr. Harms said most of those infected are young girls between 19 and 21 and young men between 21 and 25. In the American district of Neukoelln with a population of 300,000, one of every sixteen girls 19 years old has syphilis, he said. He noted that no occupation troops are billeted in this district.

When the telephone lines go dead in the average city it's troublesome, but when they go dead in Berlin it's catastrophic.

When spring floods began to wreak havoc with the wires strange and weird conversations took place.

Americans making inter-office calls have found themselves talking to unknown Frenchmen in Baden-Baden, bemused Englishmen in London, and excited Slavs in Moscow.

Difficulty With Spelling

The situation isn't helped by the courteous but confused German telephone operators who make typical mistakes in spelling out American names. An operator who spelled out the word "jug" advised one American that it was: "JUG, J like in George, U like in Under, and G like in Jerk."

For the third successive year Berlin's thousands of cigaret-hungry "gentlemen tobacco farmers" are getting out their little wooden boxes for the spring tilling.

On sunny days the tobacco boxes can be seen on window sills all over the city. When the sun fails them the amateur cultivators carefully carry their boxes over to the fireplace next to the family rabbit and chicken in order to preserve the previous "crop."

Usually eight weeks are allowed before the plants are transplanted to back yards. When no backyards are available the city planters carry dirt up to their balconies and replant the tobacco there.

HAVE YOU TOLD YOUR BOYS?

Chickens Come Home To Roost

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON, May 12—As in the prelude to the Greek-Turkish crisis, the danger signals are going up in Washington. There is almost the same coming and going of worried high officials, the same harassed conferring and unhappy scanning of grim memoranda. The prospect of a world-wide monetary crisis is the cause. And while the mechanics of monetary crisis may be mysterious to all but the experts, the results will be plain enough for everyone to see. The results will be more hunger, more insecurity, a weakening effort to reconstruct, and further political deterioration in many of the key regions of the world.

The cause of the monetary crisis is simple. Of the great producing centers in the world, the war temporarily destroyed Germany, Japan and Southeast Asia, and left Britain and western Europe crippled and limping. To all intents and purposes, the world's deficits of food, coal and goods have been met, since the war, by exports from the United States. The exports have been paid for in dollars—either dollars loaned by us, or obtained by the consuming countries by sales of gold and American securities. And now the dollars are running out.

Trouble Is General

During the last year such seemingly prosperous and undamaged countries as Sweden, Mexico and Canada suffered losses of their original gold and dollar holdings equivalent to a third of the total. The war-damaged nations have been more sparing in their purchases, but the situation of France, Italy and other important major European economies will "shortly" become critical, according to an authoritative American estimate, if they cannot find more dollars somewhere. And despite the loan Britain is also caught in the same squeeze; for the coal crisis and bad weather this winter have reduced Britain's productivity, while her customers' poverty prevents her from getting dollars from them to pay for goods from us.

Just when or how the developing crisis will become acute—whether late this spring, or this summer, or during the fall—no one can as yet predict. But the facts that the crisis is developing, and developing much faster than even the pessimists had expected, are no longer disputed. That is the meaning of the carefully expressed speech of warning recently delivered by Under Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson at Cleveland, Miss.

The increasing tempo of events may be gauged from the March figures for imports and exports. In March, the United States exported more goods than in any month in the country's peace-time history—a total of $1,327,000,000 worth. And of imports, the country took only $444,000,000 worth—ominously less than earlier in the winter.

Scraping the Bottom

In the nineteenth century, economists would have jumped for joy over the "favorable trade balance," which should run close to $9,000,000,000 for the whole year of 1947. But this so-called "favorable balance" simply means that the whole world desperately needs American goods and coal and food for which it cannot pay. This inability to pay has just been dramatized by a sudden increase of federal reserve gold holdings by over $150,000,000 in one week—a sure sign that this country's customers are scraping the bottom of the barrel.

More than a fortnight ago, when it became unmistakably apparent that we had again been hoping for the best without preparing for the worst, administration leaders began to discuss remedial action. The problem has been canvassed at a series of conferences in which Under Secretary Acheson, Budget Director James Webb, Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder, President of the World Bank John J. McCloy and members of the President's personal staff have all participated at one time or another. The President himself has weighed the situation carefully, and interim decisions have been reached. These are embodied in Acheson's speech, the tone of which indicates that there is a rather slim hope of delaying the climax of the crisis until late this year or early 1948.

The first step to be taken is to secure from congress a renewal, beyond June 30 of this year, of the controls by which essential goods are made available for export and directed to the countries most in need of them. This is the only way to avoid an insane competitive scramble.

The second planned step is to bring the World bank to life—to get the bank to meet the most urgent needs of France and other western European countries from its present limited funds, and then to raise larger funds for more substantial loans by sale of its bonds. The third step will be to expand the lending power of the American government, through the Export-Import bank or some other chosen agency, by a very large sum. Because of the political situation, this third step will almost certainly be delayed until the 1948 session of congress. Yet it is admitted that this delay may be shockingly costly.

All this will be exceedingly unpleasant for the political sleep-walkers and the "back to normalcy" drum-thumpers. But they, and the country, will have the same choice, on a much larger scale, as in the Greek-Turkish emergency. Either they can provide the few billions immediately necessary to promote political and economic stability in the world. Or they can expect their bellowings for "economy" to be rudely interrupted, by the necessity to pour anywhere from 25 to 40 per cent of the national income into national defense in a world in chaos.

Letters for Special Delivery

To the Newspaper Photographers of America:

GENTS:

Look, I know it's all in fun, but don't you ever stop thinking before you shoot? Don't you ever ask yourself, "Is this a good idea or not?" Is there anything in your rules against good judgment and considerable consideration for the best interests of the community? What I mean must you always go out for the type of picture that shows a couple of women sticking their tongues out, wrinkling their noses and making goshawful faces at the camera? Anybody can tell that this is the cameraman's idea. The cuties behave quite well until the photographers show up. They look like well brought up, decent, wholesome girls until it's time for pictures.

Not one young woman in a thousand ever thinks of being snapped for posterity looking like a orat, a gargoyle or a Miss Dracula. Neither can, strike or no strike. They are mothers. It's the cameramen that are new here.

And do you think it necessary to go to the scene of revolting crimes and pose the heroine gazing at the meat axe, the crowbar or other deadly weapon? When some movie-crazed moron tells the old gent do you really think he has the stuff to rush to the hospital and pose there as the father, the mother and the hospital superintendent all grinning from ear to ear? In the case of burglary and murder pictures would you mind shoving out of the group the detectives, the D.A. and police chiefs who always think it's a personality screen test?

How do you boys feel when you break into churches and shoot pictures of people seeking the sanctity of the altar rail?

Have you ever thought of a rule against snapping people in prayer, a picture, by the way, that gives the kids the idea that public prayer should go hand in hand with devotion. Have we made Americans photo conscious enough without indicating that anybody regards the house of God as open to catch-as-catch-can photography as Madison Square Garden or the Yankee ball park?

Do the rules make it cricket to shoot those close-up pictures of a clergyman administering the last rites to a man pinned under a truck, or pose a murderess so that she will seem to be qualifying for a job with the Rockettes, or take a schoolboy, who has just hanged a schoolmate, laughing?

Must corn, bunk, vulgarity and cheesecake get so much photograph? Mightn't there be a few normal people, men, women and children, in the picture, and not like imbeciles, haddock, gargoyles and things under wet linoleum?

I dunno. I'm just asking.

ELMER.

THE Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra of New York is among the "stars" of "Carnegie Hall." We always said that if it kept at it and didn't lose hope it might some day get in pictures.

There will, of course, be a picture "Sold to Carnegie Hall."

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: This has been one of the days when life, instead of being real and earnest, was just a bowl of cherries. A man of my age should be grateful for such days, because the bowls of cherries get scarce after the sun starts setting.

Anyway, your aunt and I had a good time today and didn't tend to any business whatever. We didn't even clean up the dishes. I was in the store only four times, to get stuff for customers who couldn't take a hint when they saw the shade pulled down. They came around to the kitchen door and knocked. One of them who doesn't know me very well, wanted to know what the trouble was, so I told her it was a bank holiday celebrating the date when they colored all paper money green.

I had breakfast in bed this morning. We threw fingers—odd or even—and I won. I nearly always win, because your aunt has a weakness for coming up even when she is trying to outsmart me at finger-throwing. After breakfast we felt like a game of cribbage. We ran into a good many games and took until 10:30. Then we felt like some fresh air, so we drove into the go-devil and drove over to Lyons for lunch at that farmhouse which serves meals by appointment only. Cost me $5, but it was a good lunch. It should have been.

On the way home we stopped at the scout camp and made sure nothing had happened to the new trees on the slope back of the scout house—100 of them. Every year from now on along about Arbor day, I intend to plant at least 100 trees, to pay back for all the enjoyment I've had out of trees. When we got home a nap seemed to be in order. Too much fresh air.

We had an indoor picnic tonight. Instead of cooking anything we raided the pie safe shelf and the refrigerator and got what we wanted. Personally, I had sardines, cinnamon toast and a pot of hot tea, with a slab of sharp cheese and a double cut of apple pie to rout it off the edges. Your aunt can't understand eating a meal any more than I can understand why she wants to cram down lettuce and salad dressing. But it makes me happy, which is all I ask of food.

After our meal we settled the cribbage championship of the household for the day. I came out 85 cents to the good. Then we listened to a couple radio programs, after which I ate a piece of the apple pie, with a couple cups of black coffee, and now I am ready to go to bed and read the funny papers that I didn't get around to reading last Sunday. Nothing puts me to sleep like a couple of cups of stout coffee and an armload of old funny papers. See what I mean by a bowl of cherries? I doubt if anyone on earth today had a better time than I had.

I didn't strive for a darned thing, except in finishing the pie. That required the best that was in me, but it was well worth it. When a man takes all the creases out of his belly he more than likely takes all the furrows out of his forehead. Say hello to the family for me and don't mind that boy of yours he has a big start ahead of him, if we ever have any summer this year, which I am beginning to doubt.

GREEKS HAIL NEW QUEEN

Frederika Is Charming Mother and Hostess.

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer

ATHENS—Frederika, the new queen of Greece, is the first woman to occupy the Greek throne in the decade since the late King George II divorced Elizabeth of Rumania.

Fragile, blue-eyed and small, Frederika (christened Frederika Louise Thyra Victoria Marguerite Sopnie Olga Cecille Isabelle Christa) is the daughter of a German duke and a great-great granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England.

Between war and childbearing, Frederika has led a busy, scattered life since she first set foot on Greek soil January 6, 1938, as the bride of Crown Prince Paul, now the new king, with only a few Greek words in her vocabulary. Since then, close friends agree, she has learned the difficult language almost perfectly. She often amuses as well as surprises her friends with her use of Greek slang, for which she listens assiduously.

Three years and three months after she married Paul, Frederika fled with him from Greece, only a short distance ahead of the advancing tanks of her German fatherland when Greece was invaded in the spring of 1941. Frederika however, comes from the great pool of German-British-Russian-Spanish royalty which trains its daughters from babyhood to realize that someday they may be queens of other lands. To them, marriage counts more than birth, and Frederika started becoming a Greek from her first days in Greece.

Promised Return

When she knew she must flee the country, she visited her friends, bade them goodby and told them, "You must stay. You must care for the people during the occupation. We shall be back."

In Egypt during her wartime exile, Frederika, whose energy and passion for organizing are, according to friends, her outstanding traits, founded numerous aid societies, chief among them the Crown Princess Fund, through which she collected money and materials for mobile hospital units, clothing and medicine which was sent into Greece immediately after its liberation.

Frederika's most important gifts to Greece thus far are the three children she has borne Paul. The second is a boy who, as his father stepped to the throne after George's recent death, became the six-year-old Crown Prince Constantine.

The family-loving Greeks make a considerable distinction between their new King Paul and the late George, because of the former's growing family and the fact that the new King and Queen are often seen in public with their children.

The youngest child, Irene, was born in South Africa, during the war. Friends say the little girl charms everyone, but one of her major conquests was Premier Smuts, who was godfather to Irene, and at Frederika's instance took a close interest in Greek affairs, which reportedly was reflected in London's attitude toward Greece.

Learns Peasant Dances

Frederika loves to dance, but until the present has had little opportunity, because of her duties in bearing and raising a family. Nevertheless, she found time to learn the Greek peasant dances, and on a recent tour of the northern provinces, made a hit appearing in peasant costume at receptions, and insisting on peasant dances instead of waltzes or jazz.

She keeps a close watch over her children, has them at table with the family except when entertaining and orders simple fare for the whole family for the sake of the children. Until now she has been mistress of only a small Athens villa, but all predict she will be an efficient and charming royal hostess in the palace. Many predict that energetic, interested Frederika may play an important role during the ... [illegible] ... band's term in power, disturbed Greece.

Murder Charge Faces Ohioan in Akron Killing

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., May 12 — A 25-year-old Akronite today faced a first degree murder charge in connection with the "triangle" slaying yesterday of rubber worker Russell R. Friend, 25, in a local rooming house.

James B. Moore was charged with murder after confessing that he went to the room occupied by the victim and Moore's ex-girl friend intending to "kill them both," Detective Capt. John F. Struzenski reported.

The detective quoted Moore as saying in his confession that he stole a revolver used in the shooting, from a parked automobile four days ago, and declaring: "If I couldn't have her, I was determined that no one could. I drank a good part of the (Saturday) night Then I went up to the room to kill them both."

Moore fled from the scene and later was arrested by Summit County Deputy Sheriff Ray Keiffer.

Ex-Convict Sought In Murder of Cincinnatian

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 12—Police of three states joined today in a search for a parole convict wanted for questioning in the slaying of an 18-year-old bridegroom of six weeks.

The victim, Edward L. Curtis, was shot through the heart yesterday during an argument over $5 damage to an automobile fender.

Detective Chief Clem Merz said Curtis' older brother, Simeon, 20, had named the slayer, but no charge had been placed against the man.

The shooting occurred, the detective chief said, after the Curtis brothers and the paroled convict had toured the downtown night spots. The trio's car rammed a tree and a fender was damaged. Curtis and the former convict argued about the damage.

After the trio entered the apartment, three shots were fired, fatally wounding the younger brother.

Nichols is held without bond in Allen county jail pending preliminary hearing June 12.

SYRIA DEMANDS UN SET PALESTINE FREE

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., May 12—Syria told the United Nations today she would accept no solution of the Holy Land problem except the creation of an independent Palestine state.

Faris El Khoury, Syrian delegate, made his statement as the general assembly's 55-nation political committee resumed debate on a motion to be known the proposed UN Palestine inquiry commission.

The Jewish agency for Palestine in a prepared statement, meanwhile demanded that the UN bar British and Arab representatives from membership on the inquiry commission.

Moshe Shertok, appearing for the agency, also projected the wartime record of the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem into the Palestine debate here for the first time.

Delivery of Shertok's statement was delayed by El Khoury's speech.

Shertok told the political committee that the Jews wanted to negotiate with the Arabs in the Holy Land, but contended that the head of the Arab higher committee of Palestine—the Mufti now in Cairo—was directly involved during the war in the Nazi policy of extermination of European Jews.

The Arab higher committee was scheduled to make its second appearance as a committee witness at 4 p. m.

Negotiations will be resumed in Washington late today between Western Electric Company and the National Association of Telephone Equipment Workers.

Near Blind War Veteran Sees Brilliant Future in Movies

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD — When Paul Lees was leaving the Japanese prison hospital in Hiroshima, Japan, where he had been a patient for [illegible] months, he had one determination: that he'd be on a movie actor at $200 a week.

The laughing, likable, smart decorated ex-enlisted man in the U. S. Marine Corps" has only 10 per cent of normal vision. Prison acid in Japanese artillery shells had flawed the rock of Corregidor and infected his eyes. A shell fragment in the crook of his right elbow is a souvenir of the battle of Okinawa.

Poor Nourishment

At the Fort McKinley "starvation camp," he shrank to 97 pounds on a diet of filthy rice, boiled weeds, fried cockroaches, lizards and rats.

"I can cook 'em long as you can't tell 'em from frog legs," he pronounced, chewing through a chicken salad.

Paul has long since eaten back up to 180 pounds. Discovered for pictures by a radio producer-show program he visited, he loves movie acting.

And the $120 monthly disability pension he receives "ain't about to pay the fool tax on his film ... Paul says. "I'm thinking of telling Uncle Sam, 'You keep your dough and I'll keep mine.'"

Herbert Ouster Letter Missing, Says Race Head

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 12—John J. Lamb, ex-secretary of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, declared early today he had not received a letter from Gov. Thomas J. Herbert demanding his resignation as chairman of the Ohio racing commission.

"I have not yet received the letter, so naturally I can make no comment," said Lamb at his home. "Until I get the governor's letter and know its contents, I cannot reply. When I do receive it, I will have a statement."

Gov. Herbert was reported Saturday to have asked for Lamb's resignation from the $1,980-a-year position to which he was appointed by Lausche last Jan. 11, because of disclosures in connection with the department of liquor control.

Teacher Walkout Postponed from Today's Zero Hour.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., May 12 Mayor Charles L. Slusser's citizen committee and education officials joined forces today in an attempt to settle salary demands leading to a three-day walkout of the Akron city's 1,300 public school teachers.

A strike of the instructors, scheduled today in 4 schools housing some 30,000 students, was postponed tomorrow only last night when the Akron Education association agreed to defer action for a very limited time to permit the newly formed citizens' panel to seek additional funds for salary raises.

Members of the committee and the AEA were expected to hold a meeting late today of the board of education in efforts to formulate a fact-finding commission.

The AEA which had plans for a walkout when a 3.85-mill levy was defeated at the polls and its demands for a $300 yearly raise were not met.

Herbert May Conduct Hearing for Race Head

COLUMBUS, O., May 12—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today indicated he would conduct a personal hearing, if John E. Lokar, chairman of the Ohio racing commission, failed to resign as requested.

The governor said he had received no answer to his letter to Lokar, former secretary of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, asking him to quit his post because of "disclosures in connection with the department of liquor control."

In Cleveland, Lokar earlier said he had not received the letter.

Fichter in a broadcast urged cities to "do their part" by "sharing with rural communities some of the money that has been transferred * * * from the country and concentrated in the cities."

TAFT CALLS FOR CUT IN BUDGET DECISION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 12—Senator Taft (R-O.) called today for a senate-house budget trimming decision ahead of scheduled senate action next week on the $4,000,000,000 tax cut bill.

Taft said he will ask leaders from both sides of the capitol to get together on a compromise of the economy pledge which has been hanging fire since March 3.

The senate voted 64 to 20 then to whack $4,500,000,000 off President Truman's proposed $35,500,000,000 outlay for the year beginning July 1. It tacked on a provision earmarking $2,600,000,000 of any surplus for debt reduction.

The house earlier had pledged a $6,000,000,000 spending cut without any specific debt payment promises.

While the Ohio senator was silent on the particular point, he obviously hopes to be armed with an agreement on spending cuts before the Republicans undergo a Democratic barrage — intensified by pot shots from some G.O.P. members—on the tax reduction bill.

Senators Aiken (R-Vt) a frequent dissenter on party policy matters, and Senator Wilson (R-Ioswa), who goes off the reservation occasionally, said they want to know the spending totals before they vote on taxes.

Democrats have lost no opportunity to point out that for more than two months the Republicans haven't been able to agree on how deep the pruning knife shall go.

They have shouted that the Republicans are trying to whittle government costs at the expense of self-liquidating projects. They have contended that debt reduction should come before tax cuts.

MARSHALL BACKS UP FORCES MERGER PLAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 12—Secretary of State Marshall, while asking to be relieved of further testimony because of his diplomatic status, nevertheless holds to his belief as a soldier that army-navy unification is "essential."

Chairman Gurney (R-SD) released a letter containing Marshall's views today as the senate armed services committee headed for a showdown on the hotly disputed merger issue.

Shying from any public forecast of committee sentiment, Gurney said only that he expects the pending bill to be cleared to the senate floor by the end of the week.

Marshall, while serving as army chief of staff, gave enthusiastic support to the original merger plan which was bitterly opposed by navy leaders last session. Gurney asked him to testify again this session on the compromise version supported by both army and navy leaders.

The secretary of state replied, however, "I do not under the existing circumstances in my present position think it advisable for me to further participate in this discussion." But, Marshall added: "I will reaffirm my previous position regarding this issue that legislation for unification of the armed forces, in my opinion, is essential."

REP. SMITH CRITICIZES FOREIGN LOAN PROGRAM

Questions Bank President at House Committee Hearing.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 12—The foreign loan program of the export-import bank was supported today by William Martin Jr., bank president, in the face of criticism by two Republican members of the house banking committee.

Martin told the committee "I am perfectly willing to say we're in the danger zone now" in the overall lending program, but he contended export-import bank loans on the present basis are sound and desirable.

Martin would not agree that foreign loans by the United States might bring on another depression. Nor did not elaborate on his "danger zone" statement.

Asked by Rep. Smith (R-O) "what are you going to do with this frankenstein when it blows up," Martin replied that he believes it is "in the interest of United States employment and industry" to continue such loans to enable foreign governments to stabilize their economics.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Reanel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls each day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

CUBS WHIP DAYTON TWICE, LOSE FINALE TO SPRINGFIELD

Come from Behind Both Times To Trounce Goodman's Indians

By DON C. BURTON

The Marion Cubs came from behind to take both ends of a doubleheader from Ival Goodman's Dayton Indians at Lincoln park yesterday. A big seven run eighth inning gave the Cubs the afternoon contest 10 to 5 and they repeated with three big lanzas under the lights 13 to 5.

The Cubs lost the finale of the Springfield series Saturday night 6 to 2.

Ed Witowski, Cub righthander, relieved starter Ed VanNordheim and stopped the Indians to get credit for the first game and Bill Rosin went all the way for the victory in the nightcap.

Both teams were in a hitting mood all day as 27 hits were registered in the daylight encounter and 18 in the night session. With the best weather of the year, 2,375 fans saw the Sunday games.

Dayton Leads Off

In the first game Dayton got a run in the opening inning when Ross was safe on Bobzedn's error with two away. He moved up on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Stratter.

The Indians added two more in the fourth and a pair in the fifth. In the fourth, a single by Hauseman and a double by Sebastian put runners on second and third. With the Marion infield playing on the grass to cut off the run at the plate, Paulus hit a pop fly back of second that fell safely and one run scored on the hit. Hollingshead threw wild to the plate and another runner tallied.

In the Dayton fifth Morlan singled with one gone and after Harsch struck out Hauseman tripled and came home on a double by Sebastian. Ed Witowski then relieved VanNordheim and put out the fire and finished the game without allowing another run.

Aided by Base Running

He was aided in the seventh by Dayton base running, when two singles and a double failed to produce a run, because Morlan leading off tried to stretch his single into a double and was thrown out by a fine throw by Melvin Nelson from the left field foul line.

In the meantime the Cubs had produced only one hit, a fluke single by VanNordheim in the third. But in the fifth inning the Cubs gave a small indication of their power and ability to bunch hits. Burbrink and Forbes singled and Beaven walked to load the sacks. Meyers then flied to right to tally the skipper. After Hollingshead walked Mel Wiebel singled to plate Forbes and Beavens.

Cub Sparks Fly

The game winning eighth round brought fireworks from the Cubs. With Dayton leading 5 to 3 Mel Wiebel led off with a triple and Bobzean then drove the hardest smash of the day which Hauseman dropped in left to plate Mel. Nelson continued the rally with a single and Burbrink was purposely passed to load the sacks. The percentages failed to play out for Manager Ival Goodman because he failed to get the cooperation of lanky Jim Forbes.

The Cub first baseman drove all three runners across the plate with a double against the center field will to score the necessary runs. After this Meyers singled and Hollingshead doubled and Wiebel, up for the second time, got his second hit of the inning which ended with seven runs on seven hits, a base on balls and an error.

The night session was somewhat of a duplicate of the afternoon contest. The Indians grabbed a three run lead by scoring two runs in the first inning, on singles by Paulus and Adams and a double by Charley Moore, former Lima manager. They made it 3 to 0 in the fourth on a double by Hauseman and a single by Sebastian.

The Cubs took over the lead in the Marion fifth. Bill Rosin started his mates on the winning path with a single and Hollingshead walked. After Wiebel popped out Bobzean singled and then with the bases filled Melvin Nelson tripled down the right field line to clear the sacks and scored himself on Burbrink's fly to right.

5 Added for Insurance

Five more runs were added in the sixth for insurance and some proved to be needed. Beavens walked and Meyers was safe on the shortstop's error. With Rosin intending to push them both up with a sacrifice, he placed the ball where both the pitcher and the first baseman chased and beat the play to first to load the bases. Hollingshead then drove in two runs with a double to left. After Wiebel was hit by a pitched ball Rosin scored when Dayton attempted a double play at second on Bobzean's grounder. The Cub shorstop then stole second and both he and Hollinghead scored on Manager Burbrink's single.

The Cub's four run eighth although unnecessary were provided chiefly through the wildness of Barga, Dayton hurler who issued three base on balls and hit Bill Rosin as wel as allowing hits to Wiebel and Bobzean.

Dayton Here Tonight

The two teams will again play at Lincoln park tonight starting at 8. Big Jim Regula will be Manager Burbrink's choice for mound duty. Goodman had not decided who he would start. Regula started against Newark here on May 3 and was the losing hurler. He has yet to win. In Saturday night's losing contest four runs by Springfield in the eighth inning ruined a fine pitching battle between John Tate and Ed Lisiewski, both righthanders. The Giants got an unearned run in the opening stanza when Bobzean fumbled Metral's roller on the first play of the game. A hit by Galinkin, a sacrifice and an outfield fly produced the score.

Bobzean atoned for his early miscue with a long home run over the left field wall with two out, to score for the Cubs. Davis put the Giants back into the lead by duplicating Bobzean's drive in the second for Springfield.

Ten men went to bat for the Giants in the game clinching eighth. Three singles, two doubles and two errors, gave the winners four runs. In this inning Frank Smith, crossfire righthander, replaced Tate for the Bruins and put out the fire too late.

The Cubs scored a futile run in the eighth. Wiebel led off with a triple and stayed on third as Bobzean grounded out and Nelson walked and scored on a hard bounder to short by Burbrink which was fumbled by O'Grady, Giant shortstop. Before Burbrink's life Nelson was picked off first base to injury the Cubs chances for one of their famous eight inning rallies. Forbes followed with a hit but Beaven struck out to end the inning.

What's Bruin?

Manager Nelson Burbrink is fast getting the same treatment from Ohio State league hurlers that Ted Williams gets from American league flingers.

On the first series around the loop the pitchers pitched to Nelse the same as other batters. But since the release of the league averages Saturday by Howe News Bureau, which showed the Marion skipper hitting at a 462 pace, being the leader in runs batted in, the opposing managers have ordered their pitchers to give him nothing good to hit.

Springfield walked him twice. In Saturday's contest the Giant hurlers gave two free tickets Sunday the Dayton hurlers twice in the two games were pitching low curves to him. The Marion manager will get very few good balls to hit at from now on as many think he is an AAA catcher playing in a class D league.

Very few runners now try to steal on the Marion team. On the few times they have made the attempt Burbrink has thrown the ball to second like a rifle shot and most of them have been retired.

Two bases have been stolen on the Cubs the last week. Both came when the runner was not held to his base by the pitcher or the piten was in the dirt.

This is quite a change for Marion fans for the three previous years in the league many runners stole at will on the home battery.

Preston Ward, Zanesville first baseman three years ago, is now with the Fort Worth class A Western league club. Last year he played for Danville in the class B Three-Eye league Marion Manager Nelson Burbrink was also in that loop last season.

Dodgers Likely To Be Loop Top Dog For Coming Week

By The Associated Press

A smashing doubleheader victory by the Zanesville Dodgers over Richmond Sunday extended the Dodgers' winning string to five games and virtually assured them of keeping first place through this third week of the Ohio State league schedule.

The Dodgers thumped Richmond 17-3 and 10-3, dropping the Indiana club from second place into a three-way tie with Springfield and Newark for third. Catcher Dick Schaeffer of Richmond fell while base-running and suffered a possible ankle fracture.

The Newark Browns swept a pair of home games from the Muncie Packers 11-9 and 7-5, coming from behind in each game to win on four-run rallies. Ed Fowler's homer with the bases full decided the first contest in the eighth inning.

In the other Sunday twin bill, Springfield lost the first game at Lima, 11-1, but took the seven-inning nightcap 7-2.

Tribe Front Office Pats Self On Back For Swapping Reynolds for Joe Gordon

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 12 — The Cleveland Indians' front office becomes more convinced every day that it engineered one of the smartest deals of the winter season by swapping pitcher Allie Reynolds to the New York Yankees for Joe (Flash) Gordon.

Joe hasn't been reluctant to express his pleasure at parting company with Larry McPhail and admits he had little incentive to put forth his best efforts with the Yankees last year.

Gordon's bat was the big noise at Sportsman's park in St. Louis yesterday as the Indians swamped the Browns 16 to 1 in their most impressive offensive outburst of the season.

The ex-Yankee slammed his fifth and sixth homers of the season and also contributed a single to bat in four runs. He now paces the American league in the homer department. His RBI total reads 16, for second place in the circuit.

Joe's batting average soared all the way to .317 after yesterday's performance.

Pat Seerey and Ken Keltner also clubbed round trippers to swell the 16-hit onslaught against Jack Kramer, Ellis Kinder and Clarence Iott.

Red Embree allowed only seven hits and lost a shutout when Bob Billinger homered in the eighth. Hal Peck extended his consecutive games hitting string with a double and a single.

Reds Sink to Season's Low, Dropping Dual Bill

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI May 12 — The Cincinnati Reds hit a new low for the season yesterday in dropping a doubleheader to the Chicago Cubs, 6-3 and 4-3 and now are only a game ahead of the last-place St. Louis Cards.

FAULTLESS TOPS '47 3-YEAR-OLD HORSES

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Md., May 12—The latest of the Calumet Comets—tall, flashy Faultless—stands out today as the three-year-old to beat to pick up the marbles, and the folks are wondering if he might not now be aiming at a triple crown sweep but for the Derby goo at Louisville.

Now, this isn't taking a thing away from Jet Pilot and his jet job on Churchill Downs' slippery stepping on Derby day. He showed up, ran a mile and a quarter around the track the quickest and they put his number up. And that's as much as any galloper is asked to do.

Nor is it handing the Belmont hundred grand, still three weeks away, to Faultless on a platter even though On Trust, who was second to him in the Preakness Saturday, is heading home to California and will miss the third "jewel" jaunt.

But Faultless has admitted to one and all before the Derby that when it came to mud or any kind of off-footing, he might just as well be running through a tankfull of Kentucky burgoo, made especially thick. Yet, he was beaten only two heads by the Pilot and Phalanx for the whole pot in Col Matt Winn's derby.

Faultless showed Saturday what he meant by roaring past the wearying Pilot and the game—but not good enough—On Trust in the last quarter to smash home a length in front.

No Longer Just "Nuts" Pick Cleveland To Win Loop Flag

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

What a difference a player makes.

A month ago anyone brash enough to pick the Cleveland Indians to win the American league pennant would have been labeled a "nut" and rushed to the nearest psychopathic ward. Today that thought is wandering through the minds of many fans—and they don't all live in Cleveland.

And oddly enough, their biggest reason is not Bobby Feller, baseball's number one righthander. Nor is it Lou Boudreau, possibly the top shortstop. The guy is the former Yankee star second baseman, Bullet Joe Gordon.

Performs Like Thoroughbred

In performing like a thoroughbred at his old second base post and teaming perfectly with Boudreau in the field, Gordon is batting well over .300. He has made only one error in 80 chances and has helped the Indians complete 19 double plays.

The 32-year-old Gordon hammered out two home runs and a single yesterday and drove in four runs to lead the Indians to an overwhelming 16-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns. The triumph enabled the Tribe to take over the runner-up spot only a game and a half behind the front running Detroit Tigers who swept a double header from the Chicago White Sox 10-0 and 6-1 before 45,755 fans in Chicago. The defending champion Boston Red Sox gladdened a crowd of 32,211 hometown rooters by nosing out the Yankees 8-7. The Philadelphia Athletics divided a pair with Washington, winning the opener 4-0 and dropping the nightcap 2-1.

Cubs Lead National

The Chicago Cubs took over the National league lead by one full game from the Boston Braves by whipping the Reds in Cincinnati twice, 6-3 and 4-3. A turnout of 31,840 saw the hometown New York Giants hold the Braves to a split as the Polo Grounders won the first 8-1 and lost the second 11-3.

The Philadelphia Phils handed the Brookklyn Dodgers a severe jolt by humbling them twice before a record Shibe park crowd of 40,952, 7-3 and 5-4. The double defeat dropped the Dodgers from first to third place. The St. Louis Cardinals emerged with a win and a tie in their double-header in Pittsburgh, winning the first in 10 innings, 10-6, and tying the second, 3-3, with the game called at the end of seven innings by the 7 p. m. Pennsylvania curfew law.

SCHLAIRET MT. VERNON 10 TO 5

Schlairet baseball team opened its season at McKinley park yesterday afternoon giving a 10 to 5 whipping to Shelmar Products of Mt. Vernon.

The local independents started off like they meant business as five runs crossed the plate in the first inning giving Marion a 5 to 2 lead going into the second. Bobby Virden's triple with three aboard was the big event of this spree.

Burggraf, Shelmar catcher, was the fungo man for the visitors as he batted four for four. All his hits were singles.

The only other Transfer man to hit yesterday was Eddie Young, who got a double in the sixth. Shelmar turned in 10 hits and trailed until after their big, four run seventh inning.

This was the second game of the season for Mt. Vernon. Schlairet will play Galion-Moose at McKinley at 2:30 p. m. next Sunday.

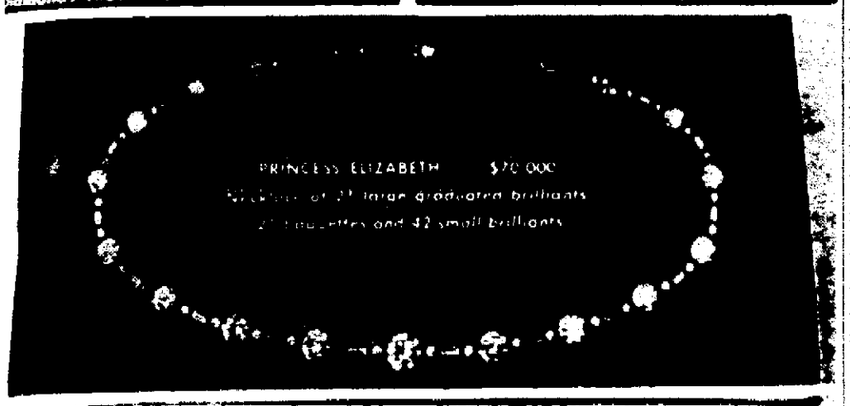
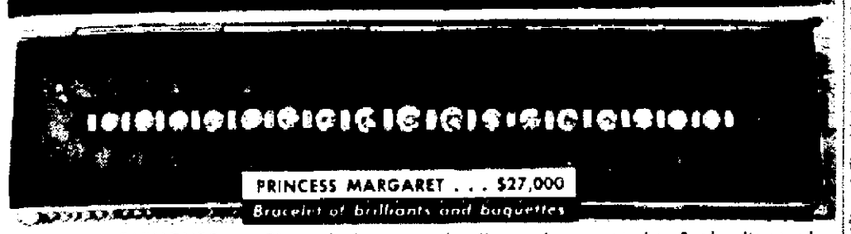
Those Royal Diamonds





FORTUNE IN DIAMONDS . . . Pictured above are the diamonds presented to England's royal family by the Union of South Africa. All stones are unset and arranged in wax for the presentation. The jewels presented to the King are temporarily arranged in the form of a springbok (South African antelope). Gem experts in America estimate that the entire collection is worth roughly $250,000 at current retail prices, pointing out, however, that an exact estimate is impossible without close examination. Working from the quarter-million-dollar figure, individual values probably would be near those listed.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

AS Jack's echoing "Never" caromed around the room, Katharine took a tentative step toward the door behind which Mary lay in the mercifully drugged sleep Dr. Twitchell had given to her.

"I'll just take one look at Mary," she said tentatively, but I caught her arm and swung her around facing the other door.

"Mary is perfectly all right, and sleeping peacefully," I told her. "I looked at her not five minutes ago."

"But you'll call me if you need me," she said insistently, and Dicky cleared his throat ostentatiously as he drew himself to his full height.

"We'll do nothing of the kind," he declared. "You're aspersing the skill and resourcefulness of both my spouse and me. In the first place, Mary won't waken. Old Doc Twitchell pledged 'his life, his liberty and his sacred honour'—spelled with a 'u'—on that. In the second place, you gave Madge some spare pills for emergencies, and in the third place, if the occasion should arise, I'm the lad who can hold my bonny nieces's nose and put the pill down her. Do I make myself clear?"

"You are positively pellucid," Jack told him with a grin.

"Then," Dicky said, "will you two kindly get out of here and go down to your own quarters where you belong?"

"Gladly, gladly," my brother-cousin returned, laughing. "But—strictly not by your leave—I'm not going until I kiss my third cousin once removed good-bye. I'm leaving at six in the morning, you know, and I won't be coming over here at that hour."

Tender Kiss

He strode over to me, gathered me in his arms, and kissed me tenderly.

"Take care of yourself, dear lad," I whispered to him, and then he released me, and going to Dicky wrung his hand.

"I'm leaving all I have in your care," he said, with a nod of his head toward Katharine.

"We'll take care of her," Dicky told him, adding: "Good hunting!" as Jack and Katharine neared the door.

Jack gave us a farewell wave of the hand, and Katharine smiled a bit mistily at us. Then the door closed behind them, and Dicky drew me back to the armchair in the doorway from which we had been watching Mary's slumber.

"I don't believe I ever felt so sorry for anybody in my life," he said. "Did you?"

"Never," I replied. "I feel almost guilty, somehow, in going over and enjoying our good-nights to Faith."

A Bit Morbid

"That's morbid," my husband scolded severely. "But," he hedged "I'm a bit morbid myself. However, there's no use of our flagellating ourselves by staying away from our darling any longer. Besides—have you thought?—she may fall asleep before we get there! Stir your stumps, Wench!"

He stood up, lifting me with him, set me on my feet, and, catching my hand, drew me toward Faith's bedroom door. I went with him docilely, but I eased his apprehension quickly.

"Faith won't fall asleep before we get there," I told him. "She's far more apt to get out of bed and come over here to find out why we're delaying things!"

"You win," he said, with a gesture toward the bedroom door which was slowly opening, and the next instant Faith's head appeared.

Dramatizing Her Emotions

"I wondered if you'd forgotten all about saying good-night to your own little girl, the only one you have," she said, looking at us with what she evidently intended to be a gaze filled with heartbreak. But even her fatuous father has learned how clever his small daughter is in dramatizing her emotions, and he grinned at her understandingly.

"I don't think you were very much worried," he told her. "You knew we'd be along. And, now, how would you like a jumpy-pig-a-back to bed?"

"Oh-h!" she squealed. "I'd love it! But," as she saw me turn away from her door, "where are you going Mummy?"

"I must go back to Cousin Mary, dear," I said. "We mustn't leave her alone long enough for you to play games. I meant just to rush in and kiss you good-night, and then rush back here again. Now I'll wait with Cousin Mary until Daddy gets back. Then I'll come over and kiss you good-night while he watches her."

"Gee!" she said soberly. "She must be terrible sick. You wouldn't tell me a lie, Mummy. Is Cousin Mary going to die?"
